September 2, 2009

downsloping trendline

Strong horizontal resistance

Gold took out overhead resistance centered near the $965 level and gathered sufficient momentum to push through another level of selling resistance near the $975 level. It ran exactly to the $980 level, which also closely corresponds to the downsloping trendline resistance level shown on the chart. That line forms the upper boundary of a very broad-based triangular consolidation pattern which has contained the yellow metal since early this year. A strong breach of this level and gold will hit $1,000.

RSI(14,C)

The RSI also broke out of its sideways congestion pattern
