Bulls need to close this gap

holding here at support

A huge gap lower on the open really dented this shorter term time frame chart but it should be noted that ever since the opening bell, the bears have not been able to take it down through the worst levels of the session.

There is technical damage that needs to be repaired but if the bulls can dig in and hold it here above 535, they stand a good chance to be able to take the shares back up and close the gap on this chart.

If they fold here, the index will probably fall towards 530 - 528.
